Round:

"I found in Puget Sound a last connecting link between his day and ours, in the person of an old chief. What thoughts must have been running through the mind of that old man as he glanced over the wonderful story of seventy years which had come and gone since John Vancouver sailed with his stately ships up Puget Sound, I know not; for the leathern countenances of the Indians, like dead men, tell no tales. The medals that Lewis and Clark distributed among the Indians at the mouth of the Golumbia River could still be sometimes seen in the Ghinosk ledges, though that tribe had long disappeared, with all the Columbia and Willamette tribes, from their old homes.

The son of that Fierre Dorion, whose escape with his heroic ludian mother, after the murder of his father, is so graphically portryed by Irving, was my fellow-travelor for weeks together, before I know how historically interesting he was; and the grandson of one-oyed Concomoly, chief of the Chinooks, the marriage of whose daughter to the factor of Actor is so amusingly related, trudged side by side with me for many a summer's day. Captain Donnevillo was not to me, as he is to many, a knadowy abstraction, mented by the novelist, on which to hang many a quaint tale of love and war; but was a hearty, remin extension, which was ready listines.

They had also their favorite tribe, against whom it was rank sedition to say an "c'o". Crows knobe trusted, and old fillow would say round the camp, his mouthfiled with tobacce: Stankes ain't no such 'count; but if ye want to git the me mest pire-bad late of Injuns, just tran a fall down to the Wissinoo country, just" And immediately and control of the control of generally speaking, these mountain men are a very unreasonable set when appeaking on India matters. Old Pegleg' was see called, to distinguish him from the numerons Smiths of the West, on account of a wooden leg, which he had won over since any body remembered him. Lake Carson, he was in the irregular Movican cavalry; indeed, he was houtenant-colonel of the same regiment. He was a man of a very singular appearance. His red beard grow in patches, the inter vening space appearing burned and discolored. This was owing to his having been poisoned by some of the Indions' arrow-poisons ye as before. He were blue gogles to shield his weak cyes; et, though they were wealt, they were bright, elearand quiel. His face was almost glastly in its signs of suffering, and he walked stiff, with a cane, being searred with nearly twenty wounds, carrying in his body some Indian sourchire of bullets, and bearing two frightful narks where an arrow hall pierced directly through his body, just below the heart. A native of Friesland, he came to the United States some thirty years ago, and during all that time served as an Indian particular, fighter, and tsupper; or as a guide to passes in the mountains known only to him-ell and the Indians. An acquaintance of muo used to relate an ancedot of Pfeiffer. They had started on a tour together, and as they rode along, the Icolonel' gave him various directions how to behave in case they were attacked by Indians; finishing by saying, in his slightly broken English; 'And now, don't forgot, if me be wounded, you kill me at once, for I will not fall alive into dere infornal hands: dey tortain one horibly. he pronounced with the utmost confidence, though his education (as far as book learning though his education (as far as book learning to the will not be shaded by known concerned,) was limited, and his range of shervation equally so. Still, like western lok, he looked upon himself as 'particular mart,' and a 'right smart chance' of an 'argi-ier.'

"Baillo had been a good deal employed as guide to emigrante for, whom he had a supreme contempt. The only job of that kind he ever looked back upon with pleasure was the pilot-ding of a troop of United States eavaly to service in the Indian war of 1855. He greatly admired the 'smartnes' of the Major in command and the way he settled a troublesome account. In They had lost a wagon here and sold a horse-there. A soldier had sold or bartered his carbine now and then; and, in fact, their accounts war. In such a state that, to present a report wan. How to Breathe. How to Breathe.

There js one rule to be observed in taking exercise by walking—the very best form in which it can be taken by the able-bodied of all ages—and that is, never allow the action or representation to be carried on through the mouth through which respiration was designed by our Creator to be carried on. "God breather into man's nowth; the breath of life" previous to his becoming a living creature. The differ Interest passages are excertly the incelling through which respiration was designed by our Creator to be carried on. "God breathed into man's nostrisk the breath of life" previous to his becoming a hving creature. The difference in the exhaustion of strength by a long walk with the mouth firmly closed, and respiration earried through the nostris instead of through the mouth, is inconceivable to those who have not tried the experiment. And indeed, this mischievous and really unnatural habit of carrying on the work of inspination and expiration through the mouth, instead of through the musal pussages, is the time origin of almost all the diseases of the throat and lungs as congestion, astma, bronchities, and even consumption itself. That excessive perspiration to which some individuals are so habite in their sleep, which is so weakening to the body, is solely the offect of such person sleeping with their mouth nucleosed. And the same unpleasant and exhaustive results are occasioned to the onlined system from walking with the mouth open, instead of, when not engaged in conversation, preserving the lips in a state of firm but quiet compression. As the action of the heart and velocity of the blood through the lungs depend almost entirely upon the quantity of the atmospheric an inhaled with each inspiration, and it is unavoidable that it should be taken in volume, by the mouth, while it can only be supplied in moderate quantities and just in sufficient proportion to serve the purpose of healthy, respirative action, while supplied through the nostrite, at its clear that the body must be much higher and cooler, and also the breeding its much freer and casier, when the latter course rather than the former one is adopted. Children unpit never to be allowed to stand with their mouth gone. The situation of an orchard or fruit garden should be one that has the advantage of a free circulation of air, and is exposed to the south with a slight inclination to the east and southwest. When the situation is low and close, the trees are very liable to become mossy, which always injures them, by oleving up the pores of the wood; they are also more liable to be affected by blight. We desire to express through your columns our gratitude to the officers and members of our gratitude to the omners and members of the different Engine, Hook and Ladder and Hose Companies, for the suppression of the fire at our works Sunday. Everything that was possible was done, and with a ready good will that was more than pleasing.

will that was more than pleasing. BAGGAGE SMASHING.—Two projects of a law to prevent the offence of baggage-ameshing have been proposed in the Legislature of Pennsylvania. The principles upon which office on the 26th day of December, 1869, as set ing have even pare.

Pennsylvania. The principles upon which they are to be enacted are, that any employed for milroad company, or assistant, or person who officially has charge of the handling of baggage, and who performs his task so careless-the break or injure the trunks, boxes or packages containing bacgage, or who by unskillful handling shall break or injure the contents thereof, shall be not only personally responsible for the value but shall also be liable for misdemeaner, to fine and imprisonment. The companies employing them do not seem to be embraced within of railroad companies had taken care to prorevented if the officers and superintendent vent such outrages upon the travelers. The idea of getting satisfaction from the baggage-smasher himself is perfectly absurd. The traveler whose trunk has been knocked in end car ordinarily better afford to pocket the damage than to stop to proscente a suit for the reco ery of damages against the offender, whose personal liability is, to say the least, proble nutical. It would be such a waste of ti money in presecution, as to be practically a denial of justice. The only method that seems available for general purposes, is to make bag gaze-smashing a crimo, punishable by an imme-diate arrest and by fine or imprisonment, at the option of magistrates or justices of the peace. If the offences are to be dealt with by prosecution before a magistrate, accompanied by the binding over and with the necessity of submitting the matter to a Grand Jury, the requirement of the evidence of the party ag grieved before that body, and then after that the further delay and vexation of a trial in Court, making it necessary for the party in jured to be present, the proposed law will be of no effect or value. Summary proceedings are necessary. Proceedings, in fact, as summary as the proceedings of the baggage-smash-or, who has no mercy upon the trunks which misfortune throws within his remorseless jurisdiction REAL ESTATE CHANGES .- E. W. Granger o Fred. Crocker, let on Washington street

Franklin, Pa. THE friends of the Bureau of Education are making a strong effort to save it from being abolished, and the President takes considerable interest in their endeavors. Several Senators the provisions of these bills, but every one interest in their endeavors. Soveral Senators who has traveled must feel that the practice of the years has was decided in the conviction that the Freedgrown to be a most frightful evil, might be ard, and that the transfer of its educations work to the Bureau of Education would me terially reduce the expense of currying it on. He spoke of Gen. Eaton, whom he appointed to Commissioner Barnard's place, as a man whom he well knew, and in whom he had greaconfidence, and said he thought the General would be able to put the Bureau on a footing in a short time that would command the confidence of the country. The proposed transfe was fully considered at during the day of the Joint Com-mittee on Retrenchment, and there is little doubt but that the bill introduced by Senator Patterson, which embedies the views of the President and General Entor will be favorably reported. The committee called on General Eston, and had a lon conference with him as to his views on the whole question involved, and as to the service that may properly, under the Constitution, be done by the Bureau of Education. His work and study in Ohio and Tennessee to present the case in a way that the member f the committee speak of as quite convincing His nomination as Commission formally considered by the committee, of which when the proper time comes. PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD, } TITUSVILLE, Feb. 8, 1870—8 P. M. THEVENLER, Feb. 8, 1870—8 r. x. d.

There was a stronger feeling on the creek folday o account of an improvement in the inquiry for Clerk land, and a local speculative domand, and all lots of freed at $4.10 and $4.75 on the Lower creek were taken. At the close the demand as the necessary for $40.10 are the demand as the necessary for $40.10 are the control of the Upper creek the feeling was better, but price were without maternal alteration. The feeling in the outside markets was weak and the tendency of predefined downward. As no sales of Redirect of Importances have recently beel kinds from Circeland; and as the New York as the made on the last rise were cevered some day ago, the demand for Cleveland was, no doubt, also speciality. During the just four days or a week the New York dealers and exporters have been on the "bear" side and have succeeded in forcing prices down in New side and have succeeded in forcing prices down in New 1800. sors dealers and exporters have been on the "bean side and have succeeded in forcing prices down in Nev York and Philadelphia to about fifty cents below cree quotations, freights added. Efforts have been made to depress the creek market, but it has been sustained by the Cleveland shippers and it so or three of the local dealers, and prices have yielded on the Upper creel only.
